2 Entry requirements by programme

Bachelor degrees and integrated MD and DMD degrees

To apply for a Bachelor's programme, MD or DMD, you must have completed full general secondary education, or an equivalent qualification, that entitles you to enter higher education. Your completed qualification must be eligible for recognition in Georgia. A school attendance certificate, grades alone or an incomplete qualification is insufficient. A provisional certificate may be considered for preliminary review if Admissions agrees, but cannot replace the final qualification for enrolment.

If you studied under Cambridge International qualifications, submit your final Advanced Level results for at least three subjects. O Level or Advanced Subsidiary results alone do not meet the stated final-qualification requirement. If you completed another international or national school system, GRUNI will assess whether your final award grants access to higher education.

For the English-taught Bachelor's, MD, DMD and Nursing programmes, you must demonstrate English at least at B1 level for the 2026 to 2027 intake. You may provide an accepted international English certificate or take GRUNI's English assessment under the current transitional arrangements. If a programme requires a higher level under its approved admission rules, that level will be shown on the relevant programme page.

3 Apply as an international student

Submit your online application

Choose a programme and complete the online form. Upload your passport, the final qualification that gives you access to the chosen degree level, its transcript or grade record, and available evidence of your English level. Master’s applicants must upload their Bachelor’s diploma and transcript. If you do not have accepted English evidence for the current intake, ask Admissions about GRUNI’s English assessment. We normally update you on your application status within seven business days.

Assessment and preliminary approval

Admissions will tell you if an English assessment, programme-specific entrance examination or interview is required. After preliminary approval, read the terms and pay the non-refundable USD 300 application fee. Preliminary approval does not itself constitute enrolment.

Recognition and enrolment

After preliminary approval, GRUNI will tell you which final documents require translation and certification in Georgian and will guide the foreign-education recognition and formal admission procedure. Allow up to one month for document processing after complete documents are available; recognition and any necessary correction of documents may take additional time. Following the official enrolment decision, sign the student agreement and pay the required tuition within five calendar days, as stated in the current admissions process.

Visa and arrival

After enrolment, GRUNI issues an invitation letter. Check the visa rules that apply to your nationality at <https://geoconsul.gov.ge/en/entering-georgia> and, if required, apply for a study visa. Arrange travel only after confirming your permitted arrival date with Admissions. Study residence permits are a separate procedure after lawful entry; see the current government instructions. Visa and residence documents are not required at the initial academic application stage unless Admissions requests a particular document for your case.

4 Application Dates for the Fall 2026 Intake

For MD, DMD, Nursing and the English-taught Business and Management programmes, classes begin on 26 October 2026. Academic registration takes place from 12 to 17 October 2026.

International applicants should submit a complete application as early as possible to allow time for document recognition and, if required, visa processing. Students are expected to arrive in Georgia by 28 September 2026, at least two weeks before academic registration begins.

Applications received later may still be reviewed, but consideration for the Fall 2026 intake depends on completing the required recognition and enrolment procedures in time. Any later arrival requires prior approval from GRUNI. Applicants who cannot meet an approved arrival date should contact Admissions to discuss a later intake.
